QUARTERLY CIVIL LIST.

The expenditure of the State on printing and stationery has largely increased in recent years and it seems to me worthy of the serious consideration of Government as to how such expenditure can be reduced. I have been struck with the size and dimension of many publications of the State. The Civil List is one of them.

My suggestion in regard to it is that in future, it may be issued half-yearly instead of quarterly. The Civil List is primarily intended to give information regarding Gazetted or semi-Gazetted officers, such as Amildars with reference to their relative position in the service and also the departments in which they are employed. It may contain the names of Honorary Magistrates, Title-holders and the like regarding whom no other authorised publication is available but it is a waste of labour to embody in it the names of non-gazetted officers and candidates. For the case of these, the departmental gradation lists should be the source of information. One of the objects to be kept in view, in the issue of any Government publication, should be that what is contained in any of the publications of one Department, should not be reproduced by another Department. Moreover the Civil List is issued by the Comptroller and particulars of non-gazetted officers included in the Civil List are not available in his office. There is therefore no object in getting them from the Departments concerned and including them in the list. It only means unnecessary delay in the issue of the book. It is a quarterly publication and is issued almost invariably one month after the commencement of the quarter and sometimes even six weeks after. The usefulness of a compilation is not enhanced by an increase in its size but by reducing it and by excluding all matters which it is not intended to contain. Judged from this point, much of the matter may be expunged from the Civil List which is at present practically of the size of the Civil List of the Madras Presidency. Such a reduction in the bulk of the book will give appreciable relief to the Comptroller's Office and to the Press. The following modifications, if given effect to, will reduce the size of the book by more than 150 pages.

4. All the particulars required with reference to Assistant Commissioners are given on pages 9 to 20. It is, therefore, not necessary to reproduce such particulars about Assistant Commissioners of the Revenue Department as has been done on pages 21 to 24. All additional information contained in the later pages might be given in the first set of pages by altering the form, as shown in the sample submitted herewith (See Form A). The same remarks apply to District Excise Officers, officers of the Stamp Department, etc.

5. The scale of officers given on pages 235 to 263 should be omitted altogether as it is available in greater detail in the Manual of Appointments.

6. The lists showing the names of Districts, Sub-divisions, Taluks, Hoblis, Population, etc., may be omitted altogether from the Civil List, which is not the place for such lists. They should be given in some permanent publication like the Manuals of Revenue or some other Department, or may even be printed separately once for all. There is no occasion to print them once every quarter.

7. The appointments noted in list H should be omitted altogether. The number given to each class is shown against each in the list.

8. The district-wise lists of officers by districts may also be safely omitted. They are really not of much use. Any information required about any particular officer of any department is already available in another part and I do not think it is any use collecting together and publishing the names of all the officers employed in one particular district.

9. There are several anomalies in the list some of which are indicated here. For instance, the date of appointment to present charge is given in the case of Deputy Commissioners and Amildars, but omitted in the general list of Assistant Commissioners. In all other lists a separate column is allotted for date of appointment to present charge while the present charge itself is shown in the Remarks Column, whereas it should be the other way, [illegible] column could not be allowed for the latter. I would give the information on both points in one and the same column.

10 One column may show all kinds of remuneration drawn by an officer as in British India, the different kinds of allowances being indicated by the initial letter of the allowances or by separate signs in special cases, the signs being explained by foot-notes.

11 As regards Departmental tests, there is no need for providing three separate columns, one for each of the local tests, Civil, Criminal and Revenue. That such a noting of qualifications is impracticable must have been evident when provision was not made for entering other obligatory tests such as Accounts, Registration, etc., which are at present found noted under Revenue. All the special tests could be brought in one column if they cannot be altogether dispensed with. There is no harm in adopting the latter course in the case of the senior officers as promotions to the superior grades are made only from men having the requisite qualifications and when once the appointment is made, the presumption is that the officer concerned has passed the necessary tests. As University degrees are affixed to the names, there is no object in making separate mention of them in another column. Sometimes, it is found that not only the degree is separately given but also the year of passing and the class in which it was passed. Neither of this information can be of any use, specially the class in which an officer passed the examination.

12 In the lists of title-holders, the dates of birth of the gentlemen are shown, which appears to be quite unnecessary and may even be characterised as showing bad taste and cannot very well be appreciated by the gentlemen themselves, many of whom are no longer in Government service.

13 If the distribution list, pages 176-234 be indispensable, the best course would be to print the same in vertical columns with the names of the Assistant Commissioner, Munsiff, Amlah, etc., against their respective charges but the names of the other officers may be left out altogether. But, as I have noted already, I am for abolishing the distribution list altogether.

14 If my suggestions meet with the general approval of Government, I request permission to have the Civil List, the matter for which is standing in the Press, done up in the style in which I would like to issue it so that the next issue may be published in this form and on the due date.

K. L. DATTA.

Para 2.

I think the Civil List may be a half-yearly instead of a quarterly publication.

I think the Administrative Branches + departments would like the list to remain quarterly. JM 30/11

Para 4.

All the particulars now noted in the general list of Assistant Commissioners need not be shown in the Departmental Lists in which the names appear. In these latter lists, it will be sufficient if their names and, where necessary, places where they are stationed, are shown.

I agree. Space can be saved by arranging these lists vertically JM 30/11

Paras 5&6

I think the suggestions made in these paras may be adopted.

The scale of pays in the tabular form may be transferred to the manual of Appts + allowances. Yes.
The distribution of Taluks, Hobblies & maps separately printed by the Rev. Branch of the Secrett JM 30/11

Paras 8,9,10 & 12.

The proposals made in all these paras may be adopted.

I would keep the distribution list. It is very useful sometimes especially to touring officers.

Extract from the proceedings of the meeting of the Finance Committee held on Thursday the 7th December 1916 .

Subject

THE QUARTERLY CIVIL LIST

Opinion of the Committee

With regard to the suggestion made in para 2 of the note it was thought that the publication might continue to remain quarterly as hitherto.

In regard to para 4 the Committee thought that the revised form for the general list of Assistant Commissioners might be adopted and that with regard to departmental lists of Assistant Commissioners thay might be arranged vertically without the particulars contained in the general list of Assistant commissioners as space could be saved thereby .

As suggested in para 5 it was agreed that the scale of officers given on pages 235 to 263 might be omitted from the Civil List. This may be transferred to the Manual of appointments. In regard to the list of Taluks and Hoblis it was thought that it might be published in the proposed District Manual or some other suitable publication.

As regards para 7 it was thought that all appointments the pay or maximum pay of which is less than Rs . 100/- might be excluded from the list, the names of Sub Registrars being however retained as hitherto.

As regards paras 8 and 13 it was thought that the distribution list might be allowed to stand, the vertical Madras form being adopted and the list being restricted to the names of Heads of Departments and Gazetted Officers proper.

The suggestions made in paras 9,10,11 and 12 were generally accepted. In the case of permanent senior Assistant Commissioners and higher officers the note of examinations passed might be omitted and this principle might be applied to other departments departments also, viz, in the case of appointments in which further promotion does not depend on examinations passed, no note of examinations passed need be made.
